Classic materials meet modern aesthetics

The Japanese designer Tatsuo Kuroda has created a chair which unites classic materials with modern aesthetics. With a clean and simple expression, the Knot chair leads the thoughts to classic 1950s furniture. The structural components of the chair are tied together with paper cord, which provide both support and a stylish visual expression; and, despite Kuroda's Japanese background, he has been inspired by traditional Scandinavian design. The result is comfort for both body and eye.
